

This is the complete view of the ancient Roman floor mosaic of women athletes from 300 CE in its original location in Italy in the town of Piazza Armerina, Sicily. What was once a grand home in Roman times is now an archeological site known as “Villa del Casale” that many thousands of tourists visit every year.

Activity: Circle the four kinds of ancient athletic equipment used in the Roman pentathlon, and the two prizes awarded to event winners, six in all.
